GENERAL FACULTIES COUNCIL

By FOLIO Staff

The General Faculties Council held its regular meeting Monday, March 27.

COMMITTEE TO STUDY BUDGET PRIORITIES

Council agreed to establish an ad hoc committee to study priorities and to suggest ways in which these priorities might be reflected in budget allocations for 1973-74. This committee will consist of 10 members of General Faculties Council, and will report to Council.

In the last meeting, February 28, a similar committee was struck to study the University's administrative structure and the mechanisms for budget allocation. This committee has been established by the Board of Governors, to whom it will report. Council felt that the terms of reference of the two committees were sufficiently different that they would not conflict.

PROCEDURE FOR APPROVAL OF NEW PROGRAMS

Council approved recommendations from the Academic Development Committee for a revised procedure for approval of new programs. New programs include all new degree programs, any major revision of existing degree programs, and any change in the area of study of a department that requires additional financing. All new programs would require the approval of the Academic Development Committee, which would set priorities and report annually to General Faculties Council.

The purpose in the revised procedure is that all proposals for new programs be considered together, and priorities made with the total picture in mind. In the past, new programs were considered separately as they arose.

Programs with no financial commitments would be given top priority by the Academic Development Committee.

Proposals approved by the General Faculties Council would be referred to the University Planning Committee for a consideration of budget and space implications. This committee would recommend to the Board of Governors priorities for construction and development of new space and facilities.

50th BIRTHDAY FOR ENTOMOLOGY

The Department of Entomology will celebrate the 50th anniversary of its foundation in May.

A series of meetings has been scheduled, to be held between Monday, May 15 and Friday, May 19, to commemorate the occasion. An international symposium on "Biting fly control and environmental quality" will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, May 16, 17, and 18. It will examine ways in which the control of biting flies can be reconciled with the preservation of environmental quality. It is being organized jointly by the Advisory Committee on Entomology of the Defence Research Board, and The University of Alberta.

On Friday, May 19, a symposium on "Entomology and education" will present views concerning the education of entomologists and the role of entomology in the education of others.

All business sessions will be held at Lister Hall with banquets at the Faculty Club. Both symposia are open to the public. A special invitation is extended to University of Alberta alumni.

IRIS HOEFER 1944 - 1972

IRIS HOEFER, Biological Technician in the Department of Zoology, was killed on March 3, 1972, in a climbing accident on Aspiring Mountain in southern New Zealand. She worked for one year with Dr. Schutz, assisting in animal behavior studies, at the Max Planck Institute for Behavioral Physiology directed by Professor Konrad Lorenz, in Seewiesen, West Germany.

In 1968 she came to Canada and began work assisting in behavioral research in the Department of Psychology at The University of Alberta. NOTICES

SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM FOR CANADIANS

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) will provide opportunities for further studies for Canadians wishing to develop or further their careers in the field of development assistance. Advanced study programs in any area or discipline related to development assistance are tenable in Canada or in approved developing countries.

Applicants must be Canadian citizens who have completed a provincially recognized post-secondary course of studies. They will be expected to provide indication of their intention to pursue a career in development activities. Some preference will be accorded to candidates who have completed a tour of duty with a development agency, public or private. Applicants may not hold another major award concurrently without the consent of CIDA.

Award winners will not be required to participate in formal academic programs. However, it is expected that each candidate will propose a definite study program which may be up to two years, related directly to some specific developmental need or problem. Some portion of the program must provide for related practical experience, field observation, or research in a developing country. Each student's program must be supervised. The consent of the supervisor must accompany the scholarship application.

Up to eight awards may be made for the academic year 1972-73, the value of which will be up to a maximum of $8,000 a year. Continuation of the award will be dependent on a satisfactory review.

Completed applications must be received at CIDA by May 8, 1972; offers of awards to selected candidates will be made on or about May 22, 1972.

Information and application forms may be obtained from Canadian International Development Agency, Scholarship Program for Canadians, Training Resources Division, Ottawa, Ontario K1A OG4.

THESIS REGULATIONS—FALL CONVOCATION

There will be changes in the regulations of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research which will apply to all students submitting theses for Fall Convocation 1972. The changes are included in the 1972-73 Calendar of the faculty which should be available in the near future.

The faculty will require three copies of all theses: one bound copy for Cameron Library, carrying a release signed by the author; one bound copy for the department; and one unbound copy for the National Library, carrying a release signed by the author. A fee of $5 is required to cover the cost of microfilming.

Paragraph one of the regulations states that additional copies may be required by individual departments. Departments that do require additional copies should make this clear to students at the outset.

The Associate Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research says that it is imperative that the attention of all graduate students and supervisors of graduate students be called to these new regulations. Adherence to them will avoid embarrassing delays and possible rejection of the thesis.
